

By submitting their papers to the journal, the authors agree with these conditions.

2. While submitting your article to us please make sure that the text responds to all requirements that would make the process of review and publication faster and more efficient:

a) the text (doc file; Times New Roman; font size 14; line spacing – 1.5, second paragraph – 1.25) should start with the article's title;

b) the title should be followed by your full first and last name, the name of your academic institution, and, if you have it, ORCID;

c) please add an abstract (that would present your hypothesis, arguments, and findings in a way that inspires the audience to read the article) and keywords (three to seven); this part of the text should be in italics;

d) in the major text of your article please refer within the text; for example—(Name Year: Page); for example (Lackoff 1992: 32) or (Rabkin et al. 2013: 12–13) (please pay attention to the length of the dash; same dash should be used as a sign between dates in the text, no periods before and after);

e) please use footnotes only if you cannot express something in the main text; please do not use footnotes for references;

f) please identify clearly the chapters of your article by putting the subtitle in bold, no italics, not dots at the end;

g) if you cite or stress a term, please use "quote marks" only; please do not use these
