

Guidelines for Contributors

The SAJE is a refereed journal with articles selected through the familiar blind peer review process to ensure the quality of the published materials. All papers being published in the Journal will be reviewed and accepted by our editorial board. In addition to the peer review, the paper will also be referred by one or more external reviewers. Manuscripts should be unpublished original work not submitted for consideration elsewhere.

Submissions should be sent to the SAJE editor as an email attachment (Microsoft Word file) at saje@chula.ac.th. Contributors must provide their affiliation, complete postal and e-mail addresses, and fax and telephone numbers with their submissions. The manuscript text ordinarily should not exceed 5,000 words.

It is the contributor's responsibility to disclose any potential conflicts of interest regarding the manuscript and to pursue all required permissions, if applicable. More detailed guideline can be found on the journal website.

Presentation of the Paper

1. The first page includes the title, author name(s) and affiliation(s), abstract of no more than 140 words, a list of two to six keywords.
2. The format of the manuscript should conform to the stylistic conventions adopted in recent articles published in the SAJE.
3. Mathematical notation should be simplified as much as possible. Avoid unusual symbols where common ones will serve.
4. Statistical tables and diagrams should be clear and neatly prepared in a form suitable for immediate reproduction.
5. Bibliographical references should be accurate and listed alphabetically using APA referencing style.
6. Citations of references should be included in the main text.
7. Footnotes should be kept to a minimum and numbered consecutively.
8. Articles should contain a final section in which authors summarize and conclude in a way which will be intelligible to non-specialist readers.
9. Submissions that do not conform to these requirements may cause unnecessary delay in processing.

General Format

1. Paper accepted for publication should be in Word document with the following style,
Margin: Normal, Top 1" (2.54 cm), Bottom 1" (2.54 cm),
Left 1" (2.54 cm), Right 1"(2.54 cm),
Gutter 0" (0 cm), Gutter position Left
Paragraph spacing (unless indicated otherwise): 6 points before and 6 points after.
Line spacing (unless indicated otherwise): 1.5 lines
Font: Times New Roman (TNR), font 11 (unless indicated otherwise).
2. There should be a blank line inserted before Title of Paper, Author(s)' name(s), Affiliation(s), and Abstract title.
3. Paragraph spacing for Abstract title, Keywords, Section titles, Subsection titles, and Subsubsection titles: 12 points before and 6 points after.
4. Indentation of 1.27 cm./0.5 inch on the first line of each paragraph.
5. Other formatting details are illustrated by the following template.

Title of Paper (TNR, font 14, bold)

First name Last name (TNR, font 11, bold)

Faculty/Department, Institution, City, Country. (TNR, font 10, Italic, Line spacing: single)

Corresponding author: (Email) (TNR, font 10, Italic, Line spacing: single)

First name M. Last name (TNR, font 11, bold)

Faculty/Department, Institution, City, Country. (TNR, font 10, Italic, Line spacing: single)

Abstract (TNR, font 13, bold, 12 points before and 6 points after)

There should be a blank line before the title and between authors' names and abstract. Abstract of no more than 150 words. Abstract body should be TNR, font 11, paragraph spacing: before 6 points, after 6 points.

Keywords (TNR, font 11, bold): keyword, keyword, keyword (a list of 2-6 keywords), (TNR, font 11, paragraph spacing: 12 points before and 6 points after).

1. Introduction (TNR, font 13, bold, 12 points before and 6 points after)

This section illustrates the presentation for sections, subsections and subsubsections. There should be a blank line inserted between sections. Section text should be TNR, font 11, paragraph spacing: 6 points before and 6 points after. New paragraphs should be inserted with one tab (default tab size 1.27 cm./ 0.5 inch)

1.1 Subsection Title (TNR, font 11, bold, 12 points before and 6 points after)

Subsection text should be TNR, font 11, paragraph spacing: 6 points before and 6 points after.

1.1.1 Subsubsection Title (TNR, font 11, italic, 12 points before and 6 points after)

Subsubsection text should be TNR, font 11, paragraph spacing: 6 points before and 6 points after.

2. Section Title

This section illustrates the presentation of in-text citations, footnotes, equations, tables and figures.

2.1 In-text Citations

In-text citations should follow APA style. The author's/authors' name and year are given. All work cited must be included in the reference.

2.1.1 Single Author

When the work is cited in the running text, place the year of publication in parentheses. When the work is not cited in the running text, place both the author's name and the year of publication in parentheses. Examples:

Rao (2010) suggests that subsidies targeted only to kerosene-dependent urban areas would have a higher efficacy than broad-based subsidies.

Since 2011, financial reforms have been taking place in the country, and the financial landscape is changing (Inada, 2015).

2.1.2 Two Authors

When citing a work by two authors, always include both authors in all citations. Use "and"

between the authors' names within the running text and use “&” in the parentheses. Example:

Mullainathan and Shafi (2009) also finds that for those in poverty, small emotional factors could hamper prudent financial decisions such as product uptake.

Attitudes are found to be one factor affecting the extent to which individuals save with individual development accounts in the United States (Han & Sherraden, 2009).

2.1.3 Three to Five Authors

When citing a work by three to five authors, list all the authors' names for the first citation. For subsequent citations, give the first author's name followed by et al. Use “and” between the authors' names within the running text and use “&” in the parentheses. Example:

As Anzoategui, Demirgüç-Kunt, and Martínez Pería (2014) points out, formal financial inclusion could lower costs for sending and receiving remittances.

Anzoategui et al. (2014) also suggests that financial institutions could finance migration through credit markets.

Other factors such as marital status, gender, and living in urban locations have more mixed findings, and have been found to be significant determinants of formal financial access in some of the studies. (See, e.g., Allen, Demirguc-Kunt, Klapper, & Peria., 2012;.....).

Nonetheless, evidence using individual-level information across multiple across countries suggests that the effect of individual-specific factors on being formally banked varies from country to country (Allen et al. 2012).

2.1.4 Six or More Authors

Provide the first author's name followed by et al. in all citations. Example:

This done by estimating a recursive bivariate probit model similar to the model used by Ichida et al. (2013) to address the reverse causality problem in their data.

The government has taken an active role in pushing forward the financial inclusion agenda, and a number of initiatives have been put in place to create an enabling environment for financial inclusion (Chamberlain, et al., 2014).

2.2 Footnotes

Footnotes should be kept to a minimum and numbered consecutively. Citations of references should be included in the main text by the method demonstrated in 2.1. Footnote text should be TNR, font 10, single line spacing, example¹

2.3 Equations

Equations should be displayed in the middle using TNR, font 12, italic, with numbering on the right edge.

$$Abc = \sum_b^t \alpha\beta\gamma \quad (1)$$

Mathematical notation should be simplified as much as possible. Avoid unusual symbols where common ones will serve.

2.4 Tables

Tables should be displayed in the middle. Table numbers should run consecutively. Details of font type and spacing of table titles, table text and data, notes, and sources are shown below. Notes and sources are positioned below the table. Tables should be clear and neatly prepared in a form suitable for immediate reproduction.

Table 1. Table title (TNR, font 11, single line spacing, paragraph spacing: 12 points before and 6 points after)

Table text (TNR, font 10, single line spacing, paragraph spacing: 4 points before and after)	Table data (TNR, font 10, single line spacing, paragraph spacing: 4 points before and after)	Table data

Notes: Note body, (TNR 10, line spacing: single, paragraph spacing: 0 points before and 6 points after)

Source: Source body (TNR 10, line spacing: single, paragraph spacing: 0 points before and 6 points after)

2.5 Figures

Figures should be displayed in the middle. Figure numbers should run consecutively. Details of font type and spacing of figure titles, notes, and sources are shown below. Notes and sources are positioned below the table. Figures should be clear and neatly prepared in a form suitable for

Notes: Note body, (TNR 10, line spacing: single, paragraph spacing: 0 points before and 6 points after)

Source: Source body (TNR 10, line spacing: single, paragraph spacing: 0 points before and 6 points after)

3. Conclusion

Articles should contain a final section in which authors summarize and conclude in a way which will be intelligible to non-specialist readers.

Acknowledgements

Collate acknowledgements in a separate section at the end of the article before the references. List here those individuals who provided help during the research (e.g., providing language help, writing assistance or proof reading the article, etc.).

References

Bibliographical references should be in APA style and listed alphabetically using TNR, font 11, Paragraph spacing: before 6 points, after 6 points, with a hanging indentation of 1.27 cm./0.5 inch on second line onwards. General guidelines are as follows:

- Give surnames and initials of up to seven authors.
- Surnames are given in full. All first and middle names should be given as initials.
- Web address can be provided as URL or doi number. Do not add period after the end of URL or doi.
